- You will also probably need to use the single and/or master directives (for instance when swapping the array pointers around.) Remember that, by default, all threads will block on single whereas master is non-blocking.
- You can set the number of threads by exporting the bash environment variable OMP_NUM_THREADS to be the desired number before running your code.
- We suggep11.0088lsf5J4 802(ru8 r 75 Geapt0 i0 gc-2(b)l0 g0 G0 Gp0 s-4(Arti(W(g)4v)-in0 tiab)12l(u))-3(ai)11(